In 1620, a group of British men arrived to America on a ship. They were named the “Pilgrims”.

The conditions were difficult: the winter was very cold and they didn’t have food. They were sick.

They didn’t know how to make food.

In the spring, Native Americans helped the Pilgrims and indicated how to plant corn or hunt turkey.

In the autumn, they had a lot of food. They decided to organise a big dinner and invited the Native Americans to say “thank you”. There was corn and a pumpkin pie on the table.

Now, Thanksgiving is organised every year, in memory of this day.
There are big parades in the USA and families have a big dinner to celebrate.

MISSION 3
