This belief comes from my unyielding faith in the decency and of the American people. But it also comes from my own American story.

I am the of a black man from and a woman from Kansas. I was raised with the help of a white who survived a Depression to serve in Patton's Army during and a white grandmother who worked on a bomber assembly line at Fort Leavenworth while he was I've gone to some of the best in America and lived in one of the world's nations. I amto a black American who carries within her the blood of and slaveowners - an inheritance we pass on to our two precious I have brothers,, nieces,, uncles and, of every race and every hue, scattered across three, and for as long as I live, I will never that in no other country on Earth is my story even

It's a story that hasn't made me the most conventional candidate. But it is a story that has seared into my genetic makeup the idea that this is more than the sum of its parts – that out of many, we are one.
