

A house for sale

Step 2: Read the description and label the house plan.

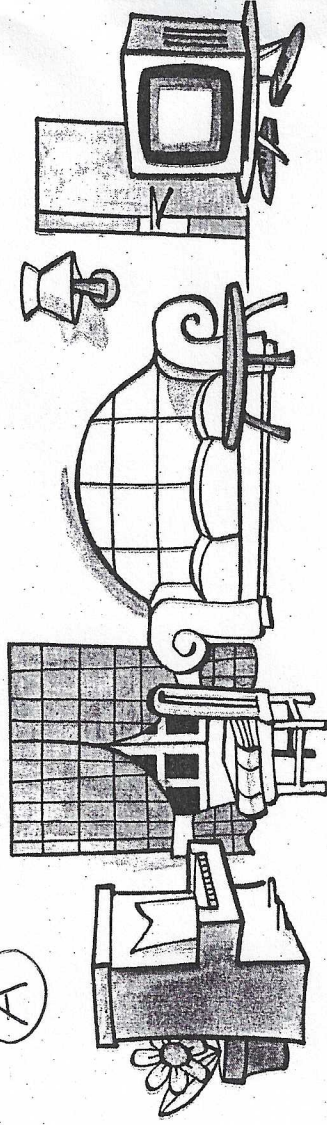

A typical British house has two gardens: there is a small front yard in front of the house, and a larger back yard behind the house. There are usually two floors. Downstairs, a narrow hall leads to a staircase. On the left, the living room with a bow window is where British people relax. Then, next to the living room is the kitchen which opens on the back yard. Upstairs, the large parents' bedroom also has a bow window. The children's bedrooms are smaller. There is also a bathroom, where you can find the toilet too.
