Veneers come in different materials like porcelain veneers, zirconium veneers, composite veneers, etc. There are permanent as well as temporary veneers.

Every veneer in Houston is suited for different needs as they come with different materials, features, and durability.

There are mainly two types of best veneers in Houston available in the dental industry.

1. Porcelain
2. Composite Resin

Let's talk about the permanent Veneers-

A Permanent Veneer is a type of irreversible and lifelong permanent veneer.

These veneers are strong enough to protect your teeth for an extended period and enhance your teeth. Permanent veneers have wide varieties, such as E-max, Zirconium, Palatal, and Lumineers.

Veneers cost are expensive but are natural, long-lasting, and helpful too.

How long do Veneers Last?

The durability of a veneer depends on the material used in making them, your dental hygiene, and your eating habits. As we have read before, there are two types of veneers: composite resin and porcelain. So, according to the research and studies, porcelain veneers last longer than composite resin.

1. Porcelain veneers - the component used in porcelain veneers is feldspar. The durability of these veneers depends on their eating habits. These veneers can last up to last 7 to 10 years. They are the strongest nonmetallic veneers. These veneers are known for their higher durability and compact structure.
2. Composite Veneers - These veneers can be placed in a single dentist appointment. While putting them, it does not take too much. Importantly they are readily available in the clinic and can be set hand to hand. They are made of synthetic resin, and with good dental hygiene, they can last almost 3 to 5 years.

Let's talk about the Temporary veneers?

As you can judge by its name, It's called temporary because it is mainly made up of composite resin, which does not have a long life span.

But sometimes it is helpful as you can put it on and off because they are clip-on.

So choosing between permanent and temporary veneers is on your budget and personal needs. Therefore it will be better to identify your dental needs before placing the veneer. Temporary veneers are beneficial for those who want to check that the veneers will suit them for a long time.

How to choose the best veneers in Houston?

Before choosing any veneers, you should know what shape, size, material, and most importantly, your budget veneer. AS you decide what budget you have and with which veneer you are going. Like this, you can choose the best veneers for yourself.
