

What Are the Types of Dental Crowns and Costs?

Dental crowns are one of the best solutions to restore the look and function of a damaged tooth. These tooth-shaped and colored crowns help restore your tooth and improve your smile.

When the best dentist near me recommends a tooth crown, two questions may arise in your mind: what type of dental is for you? And, what is the cost of it?

Do You Need a Crown?

Before looking for different types of a dental crowns, you should consider seeking a dentist to know what dental treatment is best for you.

Crown on a prepared tooth

After thoroughly evaluating your mouth, your dentist will recommend a possible treatment. If they will suggest a dental crown treatment:

- A weakened tooth after severe decay or cavity
- To cover a dental implant
- To replace a gigantic hole
- If your teeth are damaged or cracked
- If your teeth have undergone root canal treatment
- To align your jaws and bite

- Sometimes give a better look to your teeth and smile by leveling the size, shape, and color of your teeth.

What Does Getting a Crown good for you?

If you have custom-designed teeth, your dentist usually asks for two dental clinic visits. Your dentist can conclude your treatment in a single appointment. Again you'll find confused: What type of dental crown should I choose? Here are some major delta crowns used in dentistry:

Gold crowns

Gold crowns combine copper and other metals, such as nickel or chromium. Thor provides both strength and durability to your natural teeth.

For back restoration, some dentists may suggest a gold crown. However, due to color and aesthetics, tooth caps are not very popular.

Advantages of gold crowns:

- They are strong and highly resistant
- They may long last, with proper cared
- Less amount of trimming is needed
- They wear down quite slowly, like your natural teeth.

The Main disadvantages of the gold dental crown are their color and aesthetic look. Moreover, some people have side effects such as allergic reactions and swelling.

All Porcelain Crowns

This is the most used and most popular dental crown because they are purely made of porcelain material, which is white.

Some Advantages are:

- Porcelain or ceramic crowns provide the most natural look that matches your surrounding teeth' shape, size, and color.

- The best for restoration of front teeth.
- They are biocompatible, which means no use of metal; they are toxic-free.

However, the main Disadvantages of porcelain crowns are:

They are not strong metal dental crowns. Moreover, they can last long but need to be cared for perfectly, and they are more costly than other dental crowns.

Conclusion

If you have a gap between your teeth, knocked, damaged, or filled with a dental filling, you should consider visiting emergency dentistry for healthy and hygienic teeth. Moreover, you can choose your dental cap based on teeth location, expense, and aesthetic look.

Article Source : <https://www.articleentry.com/what-are-the-types-of-dental-crowns-and-costs/>