

Recap: The American Civil War (1861-1865)

The North and the South couldn't agree about slavery: the North wanted to abolish it while the South needed the free labor to work on the plantations. After 5 years of fighting the North won, and slavery was abolished by Abraham Lincoln. He was assassinated not long after the end of the war.

Recap: The American Civil War (1861-1865)

The North and the South couldn't agree about slavery: the North wanted to abolish it while the South needed the free labor to work on the plantations. After 5 years of fighting the North won, and slavery was abolished by Abraham Lincoln. He was assassinated not long after the end of the war.

Recap: The American Civil War (1861-1865)

The North and the South couldn't agree about slavery: the North wanted to abolish it while the South needed the free labor to work on the plantations. After 5 years of fighting the North won, and slavery was abolished by Abraham Lincoln. He was assassinated not long after the end of the war.

Recap: The American Civil War (1861-1865)

The North and the South couldn't agree about slavery: the North wanted to abolish it while the South needed the free labor to work on the plantations. After 5 years of fighting the North won, and slavery was abolished by Abraham Lincoln. He was assassinated not long after the end of the war.

Recap: The American Civil War (1861-1865)

The North and the South couldn't agree about slavery: the North wanted to abolish it while the South needed the free labor to work on the plantations. After 5 years of fighting the North won, and slavery was abolished by Abraham Lincoln. He was assassinated not long after the end of the war.

Recap: The American Civil War (1861-1865)

The North and the South couldn't agree about slavery: the North wanted to abolish it while the South needed the free labor to work on the plantations. After 5 years of fighting the North won, and slavery was abolished by Abraham Lincoln. He was assassinated not long after the end of the war.