

Turtles

We come to defend an endangered species as turtles.

In the first, turtles are endangered because of waste pollution in the water. Several thousand turtles die by years because of plastic. Then turtles also die because of boats, trapped by drift nets and also by swallowing blue-ringed octopus which is a venomous species.

The hunting and consumption is less practiced today. You can find turtles in the south of France including the Var and Corse in the oceans. If the people do not throw waste in the oceans, the turtles are plus many.

The turtles are captured for meat and eggs. Turtles die from choking and swallowing plastic and there is a 22% chance that turtles will die from eating a single piece of plastic. Researchers found 1000 dead turtles washed up on their shores.

Throwing waste in the oceans is prohibited otherwise it will be punished with a fine. To cut down on some things plastic bag. Create a place specialized for turtles.

We come to take action that is a poster for to sensitize a disappearance of turtles.
