Cadence Parfaite et Demi-Cadence

- Cadence Parfaite

La cadence parfaite termine la phrase musicale par l'enchaînement de la Dominante (Vème degré) et de la Tonique (Ier degré) à la basse. On entend un "point". (comme si le morceau était terminé.)

Exemples :

Two musical examples of Perfect Cadence (C.P.) are shown. The first is in C Major, and the second is in A minor. Each example consists of a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. In both, the bass line shows a V-I progression. The C.P. label is placed above the bass line. The notes in the treble clef are: C major (C4, E4, G4, C5) and A minor (A3, C4, E4, A4).

- Demi-Cadence

La demi-cadence termine la phrase musicale par l'arrêt sur la Dominante (Vème degré) à la basse. On entend un "point-virgule"; (comme si l'on attendait la suite du morceau.)

Exemples :

Two musical examples of Half Cadence (1/2 C.) are shown. The first is in C Major, and the second is in A minor. Each example consists of a treble clef staff and a bass clef staff. In both, the bass line shows a V(;) progression. The 1/2 C. label is placed above the bass line. The notes in the treble clef are: C major (C4, E4, G4, C5) and A minor (A3, C4, E4, A4).

Exemple : Choral de J-S Bach en La mineur

Ier degré (Tonique) : La - Vème degré (Dominante) : Mi

A musical example from a chorale by J.S. Bach in A minor. The piece is in common time (C).
