• Concept :

create a character poster for one of the character from The Importance Of Being Ernest.

Miss Cardew

"If my ambitions could go beyond the boundaries of imagination, they would already filled my heart with an Ernest person."

The truth is ...

If you scratch under the surface you'll find a charismatic woman. Despite her young age, she has proved several times that not only does she stay true to herself, but also isn't frightened by other's looking at her. During the whole play Oscar wilde introduce her as a character being ^{light} years away from what a woman at Victorian era was expected to be. Her not corresponding to Victorian values trigger reader's interest as she turns their humdrum life into a funny one for a moment. In opposition of what she reveals to the others, she behaves very assertive and quite childishly when she needs.

Less shallow than Lady Bracknell but far from being utterly reliable, she knows how to take advantage of any situation and permites to the saying goes "Do not be fooled by appearances" to take on his full meaning.
