Observe:

En anglais, on n'utilise pas le format 24 heures. On sépare la journée en deux blocs de heures.

Pour donner les heures du matin, on utilise l'abréviation AM, qui vient du latin ("avant midi") et pour donner les heures de l'après-midi, on utilise l'abréviation PM ("après midi").

Pour donner l'heure pile, on utilise l'expression "....."

Pour exprimer les minutes de 0 à 9, on exprime le zéro qui se lit comme la lettre "...."

It is nine fifteen

It is seven o'clock

It is six twenty-five

It is one o'six

It is six thirty-
