

Travelling to Australia

June 12th

Dear diary, I just arrived at Sydney. What a huge airport! It's probably the biggest airport that I have ever seen in my life! Even the airplane was gigantic... I feel really small in this incredible city, it must be the most luminous city in Australia. In Canberra I felt at home, but here... Everything is larger, faster, more alive! I'm going to love this place...

June 23rd

Dear diary, I met Uncle Jimmy and Aunt Sophia yesterday. It was great! She is the funniest woman that I know, and Uncle Jimmy is the best cook that I know. They took me to the streets of Sydney, at night. It was the most fabulous night of my life. Aunt Sophia drove Uncle Jimmy's Bentley through the city and we ended on the shore, by the ocean. The air was colder than in Canberra because the wind blew hard! It was one of the hardest winds that I've ever experienced.

June 25th

Dear diary, I would like to stay here forever... Sydney is definitely the most fascinating city in Australia, way more fascinating than Canberra, at least. I went to the Opera on Wednesday. I thought that it would be boring, but it was finally the most modern show I've ever seen! What an amazing time I had in Sydney. I would stay if I could, but tomorrow, I will take the airplane to go back home. I hope I will come back as soon as possible!

Consignes

1. Relevez « people, places, time ».
2. Relevez les comparatifs.
3. Une nouvelle forme est introduite dans le texte. Relevez toutes ses apparitions (indice : elle se termine toujours par « st »).
4. Plusieurs verbes sont au prétérit (passé). Relevez ceux dont vous ignorez la traduction et notez-les dans votre cahier.
5. Quelle est la nature de ce document ?
6. D'où vient l'auteur de ce document ?
7. Où s'est-il rendu le 23 juin, comment, et avec qui ? Comment s'est-il senti, une fois arrivé à destination ?
8. Quelle ville l'auteur préfère-t-il ?

Good luck!