

Looney Tunes' history

Everybody knows the Looney Tunes. They are really famous...
But, do you know how they appeared? It's a fascinating story!

Everything started in 1929; Warner Bros. Pictures had pieces of music but they didn't know how to use them. So, they decided to make short films in order to promote their songs.

Warner Bros. used television in order to show their short films.
In 1935, the studio created their first character: Porky Pig!

Then, other characters appeared; Daffy Duck or Bugs Bunny for example. Bugs Bunny was very famous and he ended up in the Merrie Melodies (another cartoon of Warner).

All these funny characters finally formed the Looney Tunes. Warner Bros. broadcasted this cartoon on TV.

But there was an issue... Some episodes contained problematic scenes. For example, some characters smoked cigarettes, liked alcohol or said racist words...

Warner Bros. studios finally removed these episodes.

This is how the Looney Tunes were created!
