Paper 2 – Writing

Part 1 (Suggested answer)

Dear Mr Williams,

I am writing to enquire about your advert for tourist flats in Wimbledon. A group of students will be travelling with me to London this summer and I have a few questions about the flats.

Firstly, your advert said that the flats are self-contained and furnished, but does this mean that everything is included? For example, are bed linen and towels provided, or do we need to bring our own?

There will be 12 of us travelling to London, so how many flats would we need to rent? I would also like to know if the bedrooms are single or double and how much the total cost would be for the first three weeks in June.

Finally, could you tell me what kind of facilities are nearby? Are there any shops, for example, and is there a swimming pool?

I look forward to your reply.

Yours sincerely,

Karen Kahn

make a general statement about the topic and give personal opinion e.g. Some young people behave as if there is nothing to learn from the older generation. I believe, however, that ...

Things younger people can learn from the older generation:

- wisdom/advice from life experience e.g. advice about jobs and the workplace, relationships etc
- important historical information e.g. what it was like to live through a war, in a different era etc
- moral guidance/attitudes/behaviour e.g. manners/how to treat other people and respect differences

Things younger people can't always learn from the older generation:

- knowledge of popular culture e.g. what the latest clothing trends are, music etc
- knowledge of technology e.g. younger people are often able to teach the older generation how to use the Internet/mobile phones
- how to deal with the pressures of modern life i.e. pace of life is a lot faster these days, there is often more competition for places at college/ jobs

Conclusion

state opinion in different words

- 3 Teacher's note: stories should use a variety of tenses, descriptive adjectives, time linking words, have a definite beginning/middle/end. Events should be presented in chronological order and direct speech should also be used for effect. Most importantly, if there is a given sentence, it must be used in the correct position (beginning/end) as stated in the rubric.

Stories consist of:

- a title if necessary (sometimes given)
- an introduction in which the scene is set (when and where the story takes place), main characters are introduced, what happened first
- a main body (2 paras) in which the story is developed in chronological order, events build to an exciting/interesting high point.
- a conclusion in which we are told what happened after the end of the last paragraph and an end that could include the main character's feelings/opinions/final comments.

Although she was afraid, Linda knew she had to make the call. It had been a normal Sunday. Her parents were out, the wind was blowing and she was curled up in front of the TV in the sitting room until she noticed the scratching at the window.

The TV was showing one of her favourite old films and she was lost in the action when she thought she heard something from the dining room. It was a sharp scratching noise like someone dragging their fingernails over a blackboard. It sent shivers down her spine. "Who is it?" Linda shouted bravely, but in reality she was terrified. There was no answer and Linda decided to turn the TV up and hope it had been nothing. But no! There it was again, louder this time and again, scarier than before. "Time to phone the police," she thought.

Linda realized that she would have to do something before that and she crept out of the sitting room, pausing only to grab the knife she had been eating lunch with. "This might do for a little protection," she murmured as she made her way towards the noise. She pushed open the door suddenly to surprise anyone who might have been there. But there was no-one! Only that noise, repeatedly coming from the window. She tiptoed over and carefully moved the curtain away. What did she see? An old branch from the apple tree, scraping against the glass!

She breathed a huge sigh of relief and felt all the fear and tension drain from her body. She collapsed back on the sofa and when her parents got back, she told them about the whole experience. "Mmm. I've been meaning to cut down that tree," said her Dad. "Well do it soon, Dad, do it soon," cried Linda. "I almost had the police here to arrest a tree!"

Thanks for your email. It was so nice to hear from you. Your idea for the radio programme sounds great and I would love to help you with it!

I would love to send you a copy of our CD, but it will have to be sometime in July. We are producing a new CD now and it won't be out until then.

There are lots of places where you can listen to music in Bulgaria. There are lots of concert halls and clubs where some good bands I know play. We listen to lots of different types of music here, so I will try and introduce you to some musicians I know who will be able to tell you all about the kind of music Bulgarians enjoy.

I hope this helps and I hope to see you later in the month.

Subject: Students handing in homework late

The purpose of this report is to describe the reasons why my fellow students have been handing in their homework late and to suggest some possible ways to solve the problem.

Reasons for the problem

e.g. too much homework, some pupils finding homework too difficult, different teachers give a lot of homework at the same time

Possible solutions

e.g. less homework every day, teacher could hold an optional English 'homework club' after school to give extra help, teachers should give pupils a homework timetable and stick to it

Conclusion

In my opinion, there are several reasons why students ... but I believe that my suggestions will help solve this problem.

- 4 Teacher's note: a report is a formal piece of writing giving suggestions/recommendations. Formal style is essential and requires frequent use of the passive as well as formal set phrases. Sub-headings and topic sentences are also used often in reports. Students should use their full names as well as To/From/Subject.

(Suggested Answer)

To: Mr Jones
From: William Smith
Subject: Late Homework

Introduction

As requested, I am writing this report with a view to finding out why members of the class have been handing in their homework late and suggesting ways of dealing with the matter.

Reasons for late homework

There were many reasons given for handing in homework late. One of the main reasons was pressure of time; the students feel that they do not have enough time to finish all the work for all the teachers. Another reason given was how interesting the work was; students felt that the work either did not challenge them or was simply too boring. The final reason was outside pressure; students believed that they should not spend all their time studying at home and that they needed personal time to pursue their own interests.

Suggestions

There are many ways in which we can reduce the pressure of homework on the students. Firstly, we should arrange for the teachers to set a homework timetable for themselves. In this way, students will not have all their homework on one night but it will be evenly spread throughout the week. Another suggestion is to involve the students in setting the homework; if the students can choose the work, they will be more interested in completing it. Finally, some students suggested a homework club after school where students would be able to do their homework, maybe even with supervised help.

Conclusion

I believe that if the school uses these recommendations, the issue of late homework will no longer be a problem.

Subject: Advice

Sorry I haven't written for a while. I have been really busy studying for my exams. Only one more to go now!

I worked at a summer camp last year and it was a lot of fun, but actually it wasn't easy at all! You have to look after the kids all day, and some of them can be really naughty! I didn't get paid very much, either.

In my opinion, you should go to the orchestra summer school. Although working at the summer camp would be fun, I don't think you should miss the chance to go to the summer school. You are very lucky to have been offered a place there!

As for me, I'm looking forward to the summer, but I will have to work in my dad's shop most of the time! Come and visit if you can.

Write soon.

make general statement about the topic and give opinion e.g. Many people find the wide use of mobile phones in public places very annoying, but should it be banned? In my opinion, ...

Why it should be banned:

- mobiles ringing can be very noisy, disturb people trying to relax, enjoying company of friends/family etc
- annoying being able to hear private conversations all the time or people you are with answering calls from others

Why it shouldn't be banned:

- mobile phones have become a part of modern life whether we like it or not
- mobiles make life easier for everyone e.g. can change arrangements at last minute etc
- useful for safety e.g. letting parents know when you will be home

Subject: Changes to the library

After being asked to suggest some changes to the library in order to encourage more students to use it, I propose the following:

Recommendations

- more books for the library e.g. more copies of important books, stock newer books
- have more fiction books in stock
- more desks and private work spaces (as not enough space for students to work)
- computers for students to use e.g. for typing work, doing research on the Internet
- redecorate library to make it look more attractive/inviting
- let students borrow books for longer
- longer opening hours after school and could open before school, too

Conclusion

e.g. I strongly believe that these suggestions will encourage more students to use the library.

Dear Mr Thorsby,

I am writing to you to give my opinions on the Oakley Sports Centre.

I go to the centre every day and have been very impressed by the facilities there. There are lots of things to do, and I especially like the gym and the swimming pool.

The opening hours are fine during the week, but would it be possible for the gym to be open later at weekends?

I think that the changing rooms are a little bit crowded, especially in the evenings, so it would be great if they could be made bigger. They also need more lockers.

Finally, I have really enjoyed doing the aerobics class at the centre, so it would be great if there were a few more classes on offer. Some dance classes would be nice, for example.

I hope my opinions are helpful.

Part 22 Suggested opening:

Dear Sir/Madam,

I recently saw your advertisement for people to work at an international book fair and I would like to apply for the position.

Suggested points to cover in main body:

- mention your interest in books e.g. I read widely, I am a member of our school book club
- say that you are cheerful e.g. People say that I am ... and that you have had some experience dealing with people e.g. I have a Saturday job in a café which involves dealing with customers efficiently and politely.
- say which languages you speak e.g. I have been learning English since I was eight years old and also speak some French and Italian.

Suggested conclusion:

Therefore, I feel that I would be a suitable person to assist at the fair. Thank you for considering my application.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours faithfully,

Jane Debussy

- 3 Teacher's note: stories should use a variety of tenses, descriptive adjectives, time linking words, have a definite beginning/middle/end. Events should be presented in chronological order and direct speech should also be used for effect. Most importantly, if there is a given sentence, it must be used in the correct position (beginning/end) as stated in the rubric.

Stories consist of:

- a title if necessary (sometimes given)
- an introduction in which the scene is set (when and where the story takes place), main characters are introduced, what happened first
- a main body (2 paras) in which the story is developed in chronological order, events build to an exciting/interesting high point.

- a conclusion in which we are told what happened after the end of the last paragraph and an end that could include the main character's feelings/opinions/final comments.

As Jeremy walked up to his front door, he just knew something wasn't quite right. The sun was shining and Jeremy was sweating slightly from walking hurriedly home from work. He didn't usually come home this early but today he wanted to surprise his wife and had bought a huge bunch of roses. But now he was home he began to have some doubts. And why was the front door slightly open?

He slowly pushed open the door, which creaked suddenly, making Jeremy jump a little. 'Calm down, Jeremy,' he said to himself under his breath, 'let's find out what's going on here.' There was no sound in the house which was strange as the children usually turned it into their own personal playground complete with screams and shrieks. 'Where is everybody?' wondered Jeremy as he searched the house.

He moved through the house, his anxiety growing with every step. And then, just as he was about to climb the stairs, he heard a tiny laugh from the kitchen. He relaxed a little as he recognized his young son's baby chuckle. 'So that's where they're hiding, is it?' He swung open the door and stopped still at the sight that filled the kitchen.

All his friends and all his family were there, even his next-door neighbour and everyone was huddled around a huge cake. 'Happy Birthday, darling,' said his wife after giving him a big kiss. 'A surprise party, eh? Look,' said Jeremy as a big grin spread across his face, 'next time don't leave the front door open. Anyone could get in!'

Title: Camping or staying in a hotel – which is best?

Introduction

Introduce topic and say which you think is best e.g. Although some people prefer camping, I believe that it's much better to stay in a hotel on holiday.

Suggested reasons hotels are better:

- more comfortable/relaxing e.g. comfortable beds, room service, en-suite bathrooms
- more convenient e.g. restaurant in hotel, close to resorts/amenities
- safety e.g. don't have to worry about luggage being stolen

Suggested reasons camping is better:

- cost i.e. camping is cheap or even free, hotels can be expensive
- pleasant to be close to nature i.e. in beautiful countryside, hotels are normally in towns/built-up areas
- fun to camp out in open air with friends, cook food in the open air etc

Suggested conclusion:

restate your opinion e.g. While some people enjoy camping, personally I much prefer the comfort of a warm bed in a hotel!

Paper 2 – WritingPart 1 (Suggested answer)

Dear Sir/Madam,

I am writing to you about the GHL Adventure Breaks holiday I recently went on. Unfortunately, I was very disappointed.

Firstly, I found most of the instructors very unhelpful and there were a lot of people in each group. Also, some of the activities that were mentioned in your advert were not available – sailing, for example, which I was really looking forward to trying.

As for the accommodation, it was quite dirty and not at all comfortable. Also, when my plane arrived at the airport, I had to wait two hours for the GHL coach. Then the coach broke down on the way to the resort and we had to wait another two hours for a new coach to arrive!

Therefore, I would like to ask for a refund for some or all of the holiday.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours faithfully,

Thierry Robert

Thanks for your email. I had a lovely time staying with you. I'm afraid my journey home was awful, however. My plane was delayed by six hours!

Thank you for offering to post my diary back to me. That would be great. I like to write in it every day!

I loved the photos on the website! You asked me which ones I would like copies of. Well, could you send me copies of the picture of all of us at the Tower of London and the one of me standing next to Tom Cruise at Madame Tussaud's?

As for your holiday in Italy, I suggest that you visit Rome and Florence, as they are the most beautiful cities in Italy, in my opinion, and there are lots of things to see and do there.

Thanks again for letting me stay with you.

As the plane finally took off, Amanda had the strange feeling that she had forgotten something. The clouds were streaming past outside the little window and as she looked out she tried to work out just what was missing. She knew that whenever she went on holiday she always forgot something. So what was it this time?

When the plane landed, she got off and walked slowly to passport control. "Did I leave my passport on the kitchen table?" she wondered, but as she searched her pockets, there it was. Walking out of the airport, she was hit by a wall of hot air, and she dove into the nearest air-conditioned taxi. "Where to, Miss?" beamed the taxi-driver. "The Hotel Grande Luxe, please." And as she said these words she worriedly checked her pockets again. "What if I've forgotten my money?" But she quickly found all her cash.

Reaching the hotel, she was again anxious about the possibility that she had not booked a room but at the reception desk, she was given her room key immediately. "It can't be that," thought Amanda, "so what is it? What have I forgotten?" She reached her room and sat back on the bed and at that moment there was a knock at the door.

She walked over and opened the door, only to be faced with an embarrassed-looking receptionist. "What is it?" she asked and the young man replied, "I've a message for you from your husband. He says next time you go on holiday, please wake him up and take him with you!"

make a general statement about the topic and give personal opinion e.g. Although learning languages can be hard, I think everybody should learn at least one foreign language.

Why people should learn another language:

- it's satisfying/useful to be able to communicate with people when abroad and shows respect
- helps improve knowledge of another culture
- improves job prospects (many jobs require at least one foreign language)

Why people shouldn't have to learn another language:

- some people are poor at languages/not interested in travelling/have practical jobs that they don't need another language for & would rather spend their time doing sth more useful to them
- some say it is unnecessary i.e. eventually we will all speak the same language, on holiday you can usually get by without knowing local language
- you can learn about culture/traditions in other ways e.g. from books, the Internet

I had a really good time on the camping trip. It was really nice to do something fun with my friends, even though it rained so much that our tent got flooded!

I would definitely recommend the extreme sports holiday in Wales that I went on. There were so many exciting activities to choose from, like bungee jumping and white water rafting, and the instructors were all excellent. I'm sure you would enjoy it. I would love to come with you, but I am going on holiday to Japan this summer so I'm afraid I can't.

It was a perfectly normal day until I got to the train station. The sun was shining, the birds were singing and I was in the best mood that I had been in for some time. All that was to change though and change quite suddenly.

I paid for my ticket and waited patiently on the platform along with the other commuters that I shared my daily journey to work with. We all smiled uneasily at each other as the train did not appear to be arriving. All in all we waited for half an hour before someone cracked and asked the old woman, Mrs. Mope, idly sweeping the floor, where the train was. "Don't you know?" She laughed. "They're all on strike today. It was on the news!" This didn't help us and we all set off to find alternative transport.

To cut a long story short, I didn't arrive at work until eleven o'clock – two hours late! My boss was not pleased. From here on, the day got steadily, and then quite rapidly, worse. Customers complained, coffee mugs developed minds of their own, computers broke down nervously and it seemed as if nothing was going to go right on this day that started out so well. Things were not going to get better.

I was called to the boss' office and he was not in the best mood. "I'm afraid, Billy, that your work is not up to our high standard and I'm going to have to let you go." I left the office quickly and quietly. That was all last year. I'm back in work now and, yes, it's at the train station – I'm helping Mrs. Mope clean the platforms!

It's great that Sandra Rose is visiting Frampton Secondary! I have a few comments and suggestions about the schedule you have made.

Firstly, I really like the idea of the Acrobatics display by year 9 pupils. I'm sure they will enjoy showing Miss Rose what they can do!

Also, could the meeting with Miss Rose and the parents be an hour long rather than half an hour? It is an important meeting and there is a lot to talk about.

However, I don't think it is a good idea to show Miss Rose the new tennis courts, as they aren't finished yet. Why don't we show her the swimming pool instead?

Finally, can we invite the whole school to Miss Rose's talk? I'm sure everyone would benefit from hearing it.

I hope my ideas are helpful.

- fantastic opportunity to improve language skills
- being away from home helps you become more independent

Suggested disadvantages:

- studying abroad can be too expensive for many families
- students can have difficulties abroad that they would not have at home e.g. feeling homesick, finding it difficult to adapt to a new culture, not understanding bureaucracy etc

- you may learn more at home learning in your own language

Suggested closing:

sum up and give opinion e.g. Although studying abroad is not for everyone, and there are certainly some disadvantages to it, I believe that...

3 Suggested opening:

Title: name of the person you have chosen or an eye-catching title of your own e.g. Enrique Iglesias – Like father, like son?

Introduction

give brief opening details about person i.e. name, why you chose this person

Suggested points to cover in main body:

- describe who the person is/was in more detail e.g. what they look like, what they do/did (actor, singer, politician etc), details from their life story
- describe why they are/were important in your country e.g. What do/did they do? What do/did they achieve? Why do/did people like them? e.g. do/did a lot of charity work/great things for the country

Suggested ending:

make some final comments about the person e.g. All in all, I greatly admire ... They achieved great things for my country and ...

4 Suggested opening:

Dear Alex,

How are you? I hope you are well. I am writing to tell you all about what I have been doing recently.

Suggested points to cover in main body:

- give general details about the job e.g. how you found it, how long you've been doing it
- say what responsibilities you have e.g. feeding the animals, cleaning out cages
- say what you like about the work e.g. learning about different types of animals, the sense of satisfaction you get when an animal gets better, the people you work with
- perhaps mention one thing you don't like so much e.g. you have to start work early in the morning

Suggested ending:

Anyway, that's all my news! Tell me what you're doing this summer. Have you got a job? Write back soon!

Best wishes,

Richard
