Today is the day. She'll come to the house in a couple hours. I managed the house for her, everything needs to be perfect. I made a lot of search about foods, music, conversation. All my process is ready and for the first time I felt something new. It's really strange i feel like something was on my stomach and was flying inside. I didn't pay much attention to it. Twelve was announced on the clock in the living. When suddenly I heard the bell rings. She was there, she was waiting outside for me to open to her. I arranged my costume and opened the door. I said : Hello I'm Joe, a,d you are my true love. Come inside i prepared the dinner. We sat down face to face at a table. I had prepared a nice little dish for him. I prepared some meat with good vegetables. She told me that she loved it. She looked happy and delighted to be here despite our differences. She started to eat. I asked her questions about her life, I was interested in her and little by little she forgot that I was not really like her. She seemed more and more at ease and happy to share this moment with me. Personally, I am convinced that love between a woman and a computer is possible. The proof, Milton and I love each other so why not me and Charity.
