

GRAMMAR PRACTICE

→ Pour désigner un élément ou un ensemble d'éléments

Les déterminants

Ø + nom

On parle d'un ensemble d'éléments, de quelque chose en général.

New Yorkers love Ø bagels.

a / an + nom singulier

On parle d'un élément isolé sans le définir.

Can I have a bagel, please?

the + nom

On parle d'un élément précis, défini.

I prefer the salami bagel.

1) Complete with the correct article: a, an, Ø or the?

"I'm hungry, Mum! Can I have a burger?"

"Certainly not, Ø burgers are bad for you.

But you can have an apple if you like."

"Oh, come on, Mum! Can I have the burger Dad left on the kitchen table?"

"No, you can't. The dog ate it!"

2) Complete the PE (Physical Education) teacher's note to his pupils. Choose the correct article: a, an, Ø or the?

This year, we'll play Ø baseball at school, so you will need a pair of Ø gloves. For tomorrow, you must read the rules on the school website.

3) Complete the sentences with a, an, the or Ø

1. She wants to buy the yellow hat next to the white t-shirt.
2. There are Ø dogs in the garden.
3. She is an American journalist.
4. The meeting is in an hour.
5. A baker wakes up earlier than a librarian.
6. I don't like Ø tea.