

My future job

International law consists of rules and principles governing the relations and dealings of nations with each other, as well as the relations between states and individuals, and relations between international organizations. In my view, it is a very fascinating job, which requires many skills and traits of character. Moreover, this job will give you a lot of income, pleasure and satisfaction, if you really interested in this. What do the international lawyers do? An international lawyer is trained in law to resolve legal issues in court focused on international disputes for businesses, trade, civil, and criminal cases. As an international lawyer, you can work for a firm and follow a standard legal pathway while assisting international clients. You can also develop your own practice or work with non-profit organizations. International lawyers can work in a variety of settings and locations including private firms and government agencies. As an international lawyer, you can work in multiple countries if desired or can use modern technology to communicate with clients who are overseas. You can work in a client's office building or rent a space to meet with clients if visiting a country for an extended period. Many clients make accommodations to ensure you have access to necessary equipment and technology. You can spend time in major cities across the globe if you choose.

But every profession has some advantages and disadvantages. I searched on different sites about it. So, you will be well paid for this job, but you will so tired with this conversations, flights, different meetings. From my point of view, it's not bad because in my opinion healthy fatigue is an amazing feeling. Then, you will be in a prestige, respect and honor, but you will have a high competition for applicants for the position. I believe that if I want this job so much, I would do my best to get it.

I have wanted to work as an international lawyer since I was 13. I chose my career because I want to know more about international law, about world politics. And after learning more about society, English, law, I decided to think about knitting my profession with this. It seems to me that I have such qualities as a professionalism, a diligence and a perseverance, a logical thinking, a sociability, a responsibility, which will help me in my future job.

In conclusion, I hope I won't change this decision on being expert in international law.
