

Christmas in the UK

British people decorate their Christmas tree and use holly or mistletoe to decorate their homes.

They often attend Nativity Plays and Carol Services.

Children await Father Christmas who brings them presents. He places them in stockings hung by their beds and then eats mince pies and drinks brandy that children offer him. Children write letters to him and burn them!

On Christmas day, for lunch, British people eat roast turkey, often served with bread sauce, with vegetables like carrots and peas or Brussel sprouts. They eat Christmas Pudding for dessert.

A carol = A song

Christmas in the UK

British people decorate their Christmas tree and use holly or mistletoe to decorate their homes.

They often attend Nativity Plays and Carol Services.

Children await Father Christmas who brings them presents. He places them in stockings hung by their beds and then eats mince pies and drinks brandy that children offer him. Children write letters to him and burn them!

On Christmas day, for lunch, British people eat roast turkey, often served with bread sauce, with vegetables like carrots and peas or Brussel sprouts. They eat Christmas Pudding for dessert.

A carol = A song

Christmas in the UK

British people decorate their Christmas tree and use holly or mistletoe to decorate their homes.

They often attend Nativity Plays and Carol Services.

Children await Father Christmas who brings them presents. He places them in stockings hung by their beds and then eats mince pies and drinks brandy that children offer him. Children write letters to him and burn them!

On Christmas day, for lunch, British people eat roast turkey, often served with bread sauce, with vegetables like carrots and peas or Brussel sprouts. They eat Christmas Pudding for dessert.

A carol = A song

