

Edward Hopper: Part 5

A ★★

The context

The period from 1929 to 1941 was a time when America's economy was not working. Many banks crashed, many people lost their homes, and many farmers lost their farms. The 1930s depression was the most devastating, affecting over half of the population, both rich and poor, in urban and rural sections of the country. It was called the Great Depression.
