Money

Read the text below and complete the following tasks.

There were three sons of a wealthy businessman. Whenever they met, the two eldest who were twins, used to quarrel about which of them should be his father's heir. The youngest, who was not in the least ambitious, took no part in their arguments. As soon as they left home, the father arranged for an adequate income to be provided for each of them. _____1 After years of failing health, the father eventually died. _____2. The elder twin had inherited his father's business, the younger was to receive all the money that was not invested in the business, while the youngest boy was left his father's house and estate as his share of the property. Unfortunately, the elder twin who wanted to take up the stage as a career did not realize that an actor who cannot even be punctual should not be expected to manage a business. ____3. The other twin set up as an artist, and had no doubt that within a short time he would be making a fortune by speculation. He believed in taking risks, the more spectacular the better, and he invested in schemes which should have provided an unusually large profit. They failed completely in their purpose, and in less than a year he was penniless. _____4.

But the youngest brother was able to fulfill his own modest ambition. With the capital he had saved, he converted the house into an orphanage. He gained the approval of the Local Authority, who made a grant large enough to provide for its upkeep. Influential people contributed donations and with the help of a few assistants he was able to care for homeless and backward children.

I.1. Read the text below and complete the following tasks. Write all your answers on the answer sheet.

The first question to ask yourself is why you want to research your family tree. (1)_____ It's about finding out more about yourself. For most people the important question is 'why am I like I am?'. You might not look like-other members of your immediate family and you want to know where your green eyes or curly hair come from. (2) _____ You may even be suffering from a medical condition and want to know if something in your genetic makeup has caused it.

Another common motive for researching your family tree is that you plan to visit the place that your ancestors came from and you secretly hope that you will find some long lost cousins with whom you can share your memories. There can be few more exciting things than meeting a distant cousin who is living on the other side of the globe and finding that she looks just like your younger sister. But you should also bear in mind that they may not necessarily want to have anything to do with you. Sometimes there are skeletons in the cupboard that you and your branch of the family are unaware of, but which are still fresh in the minds of your more distant relatives.

This brings up an important aspect of this kind of research that some people do not anticipate.

(3) _____ Your ancestors were human beings too and there is no reason to expect them to have led blameless lives. It is all part of your own history, after all, and if you are going to do the research, you should accept this fact and understand that you cannot change it.

Once you are clear about your motives, you need to take a moment to think about just how many ancestors you might have and how far back you intend to go. (4) _____ But go back ten generations and the picture becomes much more complicated. To begin with, many more people are involved. You can work it out for yourself. You may be descended from no fewer than 1024 people through ten generations and that means there are a lot of different individuals to trace and stories to check. This can mean that you spend hours going through official records, either in person at the records office or on the Internet. Are you prepared for such a huge task?

I can't remember..... wearing my hair like this.

You see this advertisement in a local English language newspaper.

We are looking for students of English to spend two mornings a week helping in the local tourist office. Good pay and conditions for the right applicants. Write to us, giving information about your level of English, and explaining why you would be suitable for the job.

Write the second paragraph in the following letter of application (you should write between 60-80 words) and fill in the beginning and the ending of the letter. (30 p.)

.....,

I am writing to apply for one of the positions helping in the local tourist office which were advertised in 'Kent Weekly' on August 23rd.

I am 19 years old and come from Switzerland. German is my mother tongue and I have been learning English and French for five years at a comprehensive school. At the moment I'm a student at English International, studying for the FCE.
