C. a) Read Claire's family story.

It's amazing how sometimes there is a family story that no one talks about. One summer when I was about 10 years old, I found out something that really surprised me. At the time, I was staying with my grandparents on their farm. I loved spending time with them, but Granddad was pretty busy working every day and Grandma didn't always talk very much. I know they loved me by the way they smiled at me all the time, and they always told me that I took after my dad. However, I don't think they were always comfortable being around an energetic girl. So I had to find ways to entertain myself.

I used to love going up to the attic. I would spend hours looking through all the old stuff stored up there. There were boxes of books and papers and a lot of other interesting things. My mum had told me I would probably inherit most of it someday. One day, while I was looking around in the corner of the room, I came across a chest full of old-fashioned dresses. They looked expensive – the kind of thing a woman would wear to a fancy party. A lot of them were made of silk. 'Who do they all belong to?' I wondered. For the next few days, I kept thinking about the clothes. I finally told my grandmother what I had found. For a moment, she sat there not saying anything. Granddad looked up from his newspaper and smiled. 'Well, you can't keep it a secret,' he said. Grandma looked down at her hands and sighed. 'I guess you're right,' she said.

This is what she said. 'When I was young, I liked to sing and people said that I had a good voice. My mother had told me many times. When I was about 17 years old, I decided I wanted to become a professional singer. But there was a problem. I had fallen in love with your grandfather. I didn't want to be separated from him, but I had to leave to become a successful entertainer.

I finally decided that if I didn't do it, I would always regret it. I was away for four long years.' Granddad looked up and said, 'I only saw her once when I went to see her perform. She didn't know I was in the audience; I told her about it later. I didn't want her to think about coming back until she was ready.' 'About six months after his visit, I was ready,' Grandma said. I went over and hugged Grandma. 'That's so sweet!' I said. 'I want to know more about it!' Grandma smiled at me and replied. 'Maybe I'll tell you more another day.' That was fine with me, but the next day I was back up in the attic looking at all Grandma's wonderful clothes and thinking about what her life must have been like then.

b) Look at the sentences below. Read the text to decide if each sentence is correct or incorrect. Write T (True) or F (False). (2px8=16p)

- 1 Claire says her granddad was a hard-working man.
- 2 Claire's grandparents thought Claire and her father were similar.

Summer Jobs For Students

Employers are more and more interested in taking on students during their holiday periods. Students can do the easier tasks and free up time for their permanent employees to concentrate on the more demanding ones. (1) However, few students know what jobs may be available.

Colleges sometimes advertise summer jobs on their notice boards and in newspapers, and there are also well known international organizations which can help. (2) This may sound time consuming, but students get to work in the company of their choice, so it is what I recommend.

(3).... To begin with, the job seemed uninteresting because my responsibilities were not clear, but when I started to work on a range of projects, such as writing research papers and creating web pages my attitude changed.

I was paid enough to cover all my daily needs, so I had no financial worries. One of my jobs was to prepare educational material for schools. (4).... My only regret was that I'd been too busy to learn more about the USA, but then, a good summer job seldom leaves you much free time and you should be prepared for that
