Title: Circulatory System

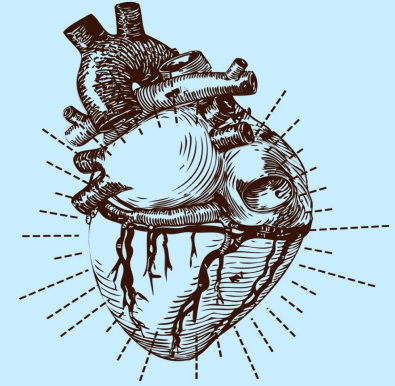

Circulatory system is for pumping blood heart. There is heart, left atrium, right atrium, left ventricle and right ventricle. The heart is in our chest.

First, the blood enters the circulatory system through the heart. Second, from the heart the blood enters through right ventricle and right atrium, the blood pumps up to the lungs through pulmonary arteries.

Third, The lungs process the blood then goes to the left atrium and left ventricle.

Last, The blood goes to aorta to distribute in the body.
