

What is an eye lift surgery?

Eye lift or blepharoplasty is a surgical procedure usually done for cosmetic reasons. It also helps improve eyesight in older people whose sagging upper eyelid makes it difficult for them to see clearly. The best candidate for this procedure is those who are in good health and have a realistic idea of what they want. Most people agreed that eye lift surgery is worth the eye lift cost and recovery time. Upper eye-lift surgery is a relatively affordable procedure. There are some reasons for the eye-lift or eyelid surgery such as

- Hooded or baggy eyelids
- Baggy eyelids
- Excess skin on the lower eyelid
- Double eyelids
- Droopy eyes
- Puffiness of eyelid bags.

Is eyelid surgery worth it?

During the eyelid surgery, the surgeon cuts along the creases of your eyelids remove excess fat, and trim sagging skin and muscles. After the surgical process, the surgeon joins the skin with tiny stitches. As the skin ages, it loses its elasticity and becomes wrinkly and saggy. Eyelid surgery is beneficial for those who have saggy and wrinkled eyelids. It is worth the cost and recovery time as the results are long-lasting and sometimes permanent. It lasts for 5 to 7 years to an entire lifetime.

What is the quickest way to recover from eye lift surgery?

Most people return to their daily lifestyle about 10 to 14 days after the surgery. But it's better if you take some days off from work and let the eyelids heal completely. Recovery can be divided into three parts, bruising, swelling, and maturation of the scar. To recover fast follow these after-surgery tips.

- Maintain self-care
- Take time off to recover
- Use ice packs on your eyes
- Avoid rubbing your eyes
- Do not wear contact lenses
- Use prescribed eye drops or ointments
- Clean your eyelids daily
- Stop smoking.

Is blepharoplasty surgery painful?

Blepharoplasty or Eyelid surgery is among the least painful cosmetic surgical procedures. The surgical process takes about 1 to 2 hours if both upper and lower eyelids are done at the same time. You'll have a quick recovery aside from the minimal pain and swelling. It is possible that after the surgery your eyelid may be swollen and bruised for one to three weeks which is common for eyelid surgery. But it might take a few months to completely heal from the surgery.

What is the cost of the eyelid and eye-lift surgery?

The eye lift surgery cost depends upon your surgeon's skill and experience, the type of procedure he's using, or the geographical location of the office. And the severity of the case. The eyelid surgery cost for both upper and lower eyelids most probably costs around $4,120.
